Appendix C: Sights introduction

1. Bund (外滩)

The bund, located on the Huangpu River in the Huangpu district of Shanghai, is a historical and cultural block of China. Since 1844, the area of the bund has been divided into the British concession, which is a true reflection of Shanghai's ten-mile western concession and the starting point of the old Shanghai concession area and the whole modern city of Shanghai.

The total length of the bund is 1.5km, starting from Yan 'an east road in the south to Waibai ferry bridge on the Suzhou river in the north, Huangpu river in the east and the old Shanghai financial and foreign trade institutions in the west.

There are 52 classical revival buildings of different styles on the bund, which is known as the bund international architecture exhibition group. It is one of the important historical relics and representative buildings in modern China and one of the landmarks of Shanghai.

2. Sanhe town (三河古镇)

The Sanhe town is located in the southwest of Hefei, bordering Lu'an City and near Chaohu Lake. Sanhe (Three rivers) is an ancient town in central Anhui. This place was called "Quezhu" (magpies habitats) and "Que'an" (magpies riverbank) in the ancient times and since the Ming Dynasty around 600 years ago, it was named "Sanhe" after the three rivers, the Feng'le River, the Hangbu River and the Xiaonan River, all joining and flowing through the town. A history of 2500 years displaying rich historical and cultural heritages prevails and the earliest written record of the town can be found in Zuo Zhuan (Chronicle of Zuo), which record a fierce battle between the Wu and the Chu states happened here in 537 BC.

Sanhe is famous for its water surroundings and ancient appearance. It offers eight famous ancient scenic views unique to Anhui. The streets with blue flagstone pavement retain the complex of the late Qing Dynasty around 2000 years ago. Together with its ancient teahouses, ancient rivers, ancient bridges, ancient polder area, ancient temples and ancient battlefield, the town certifies and interprets antiquity and civilization of Sanhe.
