

Transport in two-species fermionic system on a lattice with anticorrelated disorder

In our work, we consider a two-component fermionic system on a lattice with anticorrelated disorder. Due to the locality of interspecies attractive interaction, it turns out that the disorder for composite pairs is suppressed. This makes the transport of pairs to be possible. Within our study, we investigate the temperature dependence of particle ‘conductivity’.

Authors: KNYAZEVA, Lolita (Moscow Institute of Physics and Technology, Russian Quantum Center); Prof. YUDSON, Vladimir (HSE University, Russian Quantum Center)

Presenter: KNYAZEVA, Lolita (Moscow Institute of Physics and Technology, Russian Quantum Center)

Session Classification: Poster