

Lars Fritz - New insights into the physics of ultraclean two-dimensional metals

Wednesday 6 September 2023 14:20 (40 minutes)

In this talk I will first review some of the properties of two-dimensional hydrodynamic electrons. An aspect of these systems which has not received a lot of attention is the role of interactions and associated collective excitations. I will show that they can make sizeable contributions, especially to transport properties