

Franciska de Jong

Senior Advisor
CLARIN ERIC

Franciska de Jong is a former director of CLARIN ERIC, the European research infrastructure for language resources. Currently she is involved with CLARIN as senior advisor. She was professor of language technology at the University of Twente (1992-2022) and professor of eResearch for the humanities at Utrecht University (2015-2026). At the Erasmus University Rotterdam, she led the institute for e-research (2007-2023). She initiated numerous EU-funded projects and acted as promotor for >20 PhD students.

In the Netherlands she is currently chairing the NWO advisory committee for research digitalisation, and she is a member of the steering board of Open Science-NL. She is involved with several Horizon Europe projects, including OSCARS, OSTrails (both INFRAEOSC) and ACCESS2ACCESS.

For a comprehensive profile: <http://www.uu.nl/staff/FMGdeJong>.