Personal Postscript

No words are adequate at this time of loss, but recall

ADAM

My Lord, I was by dreadful visions anguished
And I do not know what's the truth in them.
Ah, tell me, tell me what will be my fate:

Wise me up, my Lord, and
I shall bear all kinds of destiny;
I can only gain on this exchange 'cause
This uncertainty is hell. -

THE LORD

Don't ask for the secret,
That is generously concealed by Lord's hand
From your inquiring look.
For if you saw [your soul finds temporary
Rest here on Earth, while There eternity waits]
It would not be a virtue to suffer.

You will sink under the burden of your life-
But you will be raised by the feel of infinity.

I told you, man: struggle, have trust and be hopeful !

IMRE MADÁCH, TRAGEDY OF THE MAN (1860)

Dedicated to the memory of Alice

We all loved her. We will all miss her. May her spirit now find comfort in His arms.
You can count on your extended 10^N physics family friends to help and support you.

“ I somehow overcame my shyness and began talking with her .

The subject got to cockroaches, and Alice discovered I had never seen them.
She was having a dinner party soon, so she invited me to come take a look at some of hers.

I began going to her dinner parties, but I was very quiet, and did not know what to talk about.

I was really overwhelmed by all of her friends and their sophistication.
I enjoyed the food enormously, as Alice has always been a great chef, and somehow there was good chemistry between us, so I kept getting invitations.

Finally, I got the courage to ask her out. We went to the Wine Bar in Harvard Square ...”
